

what is BRUTALISM?

brutalism

noun [U] ARCHITECTURE specialized UK /'bruː.təl.ɪ.zəm/ US /'bruː.təl.ɪ.zəm/

A building style in which buildings are large and heavy-looking, and often made from concrete:

3 Introduction of Brutalism

Le Corbusier
Swiss-French architect and designer

(Is Modernism only valid form of architectural expression?)

RESPOTE to clean lines and polite forms

Architects experimented NEW WAYS to create MEANINGFUL buildings

Including terminology such as 'monumentality',
'brutalism', and 'béton(concrete) brut(raw)'

"A spiritual quality interest in a structure which conveys the feeling of its eternity, ..."

Louis Kahn, architect, United States